

COMPUTER — SEMESTER - I

4 lesson(s) included, 0 missing

Included:

- Chapter-1 : Categories of Computer and computer languages
- Chapter-2 : File Management- Organisation of Data
- Chapter-3 : Working with Tables
- Chapter-4 : Word Processor-Mail Merge

Question-1:

Fill in the blanks:

1. The computers that work on analog data are called computers.
2. A set of instructions to perform a particular task is called a
3. The language in which the instructions are written is known as alanguage.
4. A is a program that translates an entire program into machine code all at once.
5. Third generation languages are known as languages.

Question-2:

Answer the following questions:

1. What are called hybrid computers? Give two examples.
2. What is the use of Tablet computers?
3. Write any two features of minicomputers.
4. List any four examples of microcomputers.
5. Differentiate analog and digital computers.
6. What is machine language?
7. Write the difference between interpreter and compiler.
8. Write any two features of 4GLs.
9. Write about Fifth Generation Languages.
10. What is the use of mainframe computers?

Question-3:

Name the following:

1. The most powerful and fastest computers in the world.
2. A second generation computer language.
3. A person who writes instructions.
4. A program that translates and runs code line by line.
5. A tiny, affordable computer used to learn coding and try out tech projects.
6. A small, personal computer used by individuals.

Question-4:

Expand the following:

1. HLL -
2. LLL -
3. AI -

Question-5:

Identify the following and write its use:

Question-1:

Fill in the blanks:

1. The file format indicates the type of a
2. The file extension is used for PDF file.
3. To copy a file or folder,click the ThisPC icon on the desktop.
4. To move a file, click the cut command from thegroup.

Question-2:

Answer the following questions:

1. What is the use of files and folders?
2. Differentiate moving and copying file or folder.
3. Mention the two wildcard characters and write its use.
4. Mention any four file extensions with the application name.

Question-3:

Name the following:

1. Special characters that help to search for files and folders.
2. A three of four letter suffix added at the end of the file name.

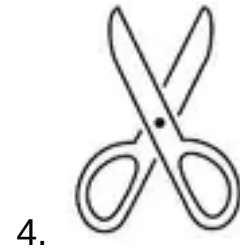

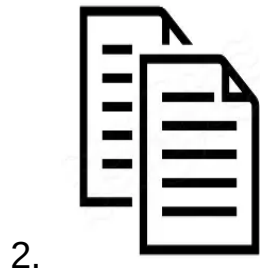

Question-4:

Write the shortcut key for the following:

1. To open This PC window -
2. To copy a file or folder -
3. To cut a file or folder -
4. To Paste a file or folder -

Question-5:

Identify the following icons and write its use:

Question-1:

Name the following:

1. A horizontal line of cells in a table.
2. A vertical line of cells in a table.
3. The position of text within a cell.
4. Lines around the edges of cells to separate and define them.
5. Background colour applied to cells in a table.
6. The intersection of a row and a column.
7. Making some changes to the structure of the table.

Question-2:

Fill in the blanks:

1. Ais made up of horizontal rows and vertical columns.
2. To insert a table in the document, click thetab.
3. To insert a row or a column in a table, click thetab.
4. To select a cell or a row,click in a cell.

Question-3:

Answer the following questions:

1. Differentiate insert above and insert below option in table.
2. How to resize a table?
3. Write the difference between merging and splitting cells in a table.
4. What is the use of Table Move handle?
5. How to apply borders in a table?

Question-4:

Write the shortcut key for the following:

1. To move to the next cell -
2. To move to the previous cell -
3. To align horizontally to the right -

4. To align horizontally to the left -
5. To align horizontally to the centre -
6. To justify horizontally -

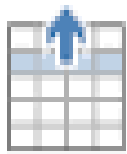

Question-5:

Name the tab used for the following:

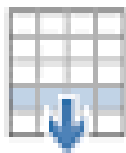

1. To insert a table -
2. To select a part of a table -
3. To change the row height -
4. To align text in a cell -
5. To apply borders and shading-

Question-5:

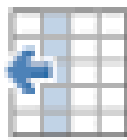

Identify the following icons and write its use:

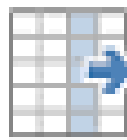

i.

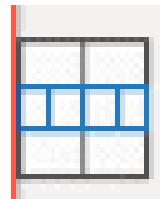

ii.

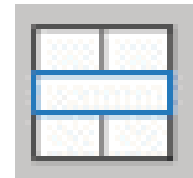

iii.

iv.

v.

vi.

Question-1:

Fill in the blanks:

1. A data file used in Mail Merge is saved with aextension.
2. Use thekey to quickly move from one column to another.
3. By default, a data source file is saved in the folder.
4. To create a data source, click the button.
5. The button is used to insert a new column.
6. To add a single field click thebutton.

Question-2:

Answer the following questions:

1. What is Mail Merge?
2. Write any four advantages of Mail Merge.
3. Name the three components of Mail Merge.
4. What is called Main Document?
5. What is Data Source?
6. What is Merged Document?
7. What are the three steps to perform Mail Merge?